A PARTNERSHIP
Opportunity with us!

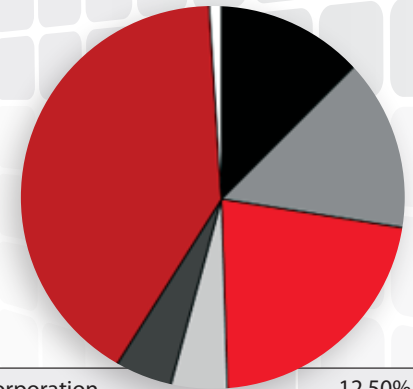

The Canadian Public Procurement Council (CPPC) is the leading resource for procurement professionals in Canada. The CPPC promotes the principles of Open, Fair and Transparent public procurement practices. This is accomplished through promoting professional education of Procurement Officers and liaising with Senior Government Officials and organizations to address issues within the industry.

Become a member and support this vital organization and connect with our national network of procurement organizations and professionals from all public sectors.

The CPPC is a non-profit organization with the following primary objectives:

- Provide Government sector procurement leadership and promote dialogue in Open, Fair and Transparent procurement practices;
- Act as the go-between for businesses dealing with public procurement, asserting their issues and concerns;
- Add value to the supply chain management function within member organizations, and with public organizations;
- Promote the exchange and growth of ideas, information and experiences related to public procurement and related activities; and
- Consider the operational impacts of emerging policies and best practices in private procurement (trade agreements, electronic marketplace and public-private partnerships) and how they may be applied or appropriate for public organizations as well as for private companies.

The CPPC is consisted of approximately 100 members from all the different sectors of public procurement in Canada allowing us to reach over 1000 public procurement professionals across the country. Procurement contracts awarded in the public sector in Canada represent more than 16 billion dollars in value every year. Members of our community are engaged in all aspects of the procurement process and are empowered to make purchasing decisions, making them a critical audience for your engagement.

Benefits of being a Private Member of the CPPC:

Private Members are organizations that choose to become members of the CPPC although they are not Government entities. Private Members will see the value in their membership through the opportunities brought forth by association with Government procurement entities.

- Private Members will enjoy visibility on the CPPC website and in the CPPC monthly newsletters. These venues assure access and exposure to all members on our public membership database;
- Private Members will have access to our public members' roster and their valuable source of information allowing you to be easily directed towards their public tenders;
- Private Members will have the ability to network, discuss best practices and share issues and concerns associated with dealing with public procurement to our events organized periodically and reserved for our Private Members;
- Private Members will be involved and solicited for input when important public procurement issues are being discussed by industry leaders;
- Private Members will have the opportunity to be involved in reviewing new procurement documents, research reports and best practices presentations when they are still at the development stage.

Since the CPPC is a not-for-profit organization, your membership fees are used to directly support the public procurement community in Canada through the development and implementation of diverse initiatives that promote practices under the principles of Open, Fair and Transparent procurement.

As a Private Member of CPPC, you will receive specifically:

- Reduced rates to participate in the Annual CPPC Forum.
- Reduced rates for an exhibit booth at the Forum Product and Services Expo;
- Access to workshops, seminars and briefing sessions with key players in the public procurement community in Canada;
- Convenient access to a section reserved for our Private Members on our website including a list of our public members' organizations and other relevant sources of information;

This partnership opportunity with us will allow to strengthen relationships through education, programs and ideas to increase the value proposition to all of our membership categories.
