YOUR HOSTS

Supply Chain Canada is a nationwide association. We are the principal source of supply chain training, education, and professional development. We create critical networking opportunities, provide valuable engagements for member feedback and professional input.

We advocate for members and their careers with governments and businesses across the country. Our member-centered approach is focused on advancing the needs and interests of supply chain professionals working across the end-to-end supply chain. Through our 10 Provincial and Territorial Institutes, Supply Chain Canada grants the Supply Chain Management Professional (SCMP) designation, the highest achievement in the field and the mark of strategic leadership.

The Canadian Public Procurement Council (CPPC), established in September 1999, is Canada's leading resource for public procurement. As a non-profit organization, CPPC is dedicated to providing leadership, fostering dialogue, and promoting best practices in the field of public procurement across the country. Granted its letters patent and charter under Part II of the Canadian Corporation Act on September 23, 1999, CPPC continues to evolve to meet the needs of its members and stakeholders. The organization became the newest member of the National Council for Public Procurement and Contracting (NCPPC) on January 10, 2010. Its bylaws were most recently revised on November 22, 2023.
